OCP Group Wins Social Responsibility Award in Africa

New evidence of OCP's commitment to the African continent. During the CEO Africa Forum, a big audience of African business leaders gathered on the 26 and 27 of March in Abidjan where OCP was awarded the Social Responsibility Strategy of the Year Award by a jury of top managers.

"What OCP does goes beyond a simple social responsibility strategy. We are fully committed to the development of African agriculture," said Karim Lotfi Senhadji, CEO of OCP Africa who received the award.

This is the first time that this award for the best social responsibility strategy of the year is awarded, in partnership with Bureau Veritas. It intends to reward the continental company whose commitment to its different environments is very strong.
